Early Learning

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION LAUNCHES NEW EARLY LEARNING MAP ON DATA.ED.GOV

The U.S. Department of Education (ED) has launched a new early learning mapping site on http://data.ed.gov so the interested individuals can use tools to look at discretionary ED grant programs that focus on or include early learning.

Data.ed.gov is a website developed by the Department of Education to share data about its grant programs and is part of the Obama Administration's Open Government Initiative. ED will use data.ed.gov to publish data sets about its grant programs and performance and other data that it collects on an ongoing basis.

Data.ed.gov builds on the approach of data.gov by including tools that allow users to visualize the data. Users can enter terms into the "Search" field to find applications that match the specified terms, select filters to narrow the list of applicants to a specific group of interest, and zoom in on different areas of the map. By clicking on the dots on the map, users can see which programs are located in a state, city or other geographic area.

Please visit http://data.ed.gov to learn more.

Colorado Information Marketplace

WELCOME!

Data.colorado.gov is an exciting new open portal service that allows state agencies and other public sector entities to post public datasets for citizen consumption. From this site, you can view the data and then process it in a variety of ways to produce summaries, charts, graphs and maps. Searches can be performed that extend all the way into the data itself. The portal provides HTML to embed most views and API features to support many creative efforts. We invite your comments and dataset suggestions, and hope you find this service of value.
